BR Voodoo Magic (AI,D)

Reg. No. 51,522

From Big Ridge Highlands:

Magic was purposefully bred to be a herd sire to improve maternal characteristics, feet, conformation and substance/mass. (In that order of priority) Magic's dam and grand dam were always easy to breed naturally, never required assistance in calving, and produced medium size calves that were fast growing and structurally correct. They never needed help getting a calf to nurse quickly, had high tight udders with small teats and could nurse a fast growing calf while subsiding on hay or grass. (The grand dam was still calving at 18). Magic's dam and grand dam never needed foot care or trimming and never received it (grand dam to 20 years old and dam now at 11 years old) while living on wet red clay ground and mud (other cattle in the herd did). Both were good examples of Highland Cattle Society of Scotland Breed Standard from 1884. And both were heavy boned, deep bodied, well-muscled, wide in the shoulders and rear with a level straight topline while standing on level ground. We searched for semen from a bull that would be the closest match in maternal traits, feet, conformation and substance. We found all that and more in Magic's sire.

Magic started breeding at 12 months old and had our herd bred shortly after. He had beautiful calves on the ground before he was 2 years old. Magic's calves are consistently between 50 and 60 pounds but catch up and often exceed the growth of larger calves. Magic is calm and easy to handle. He loves being brushed and eats from our hands. His second most important job on the farm is raising the weanling and young bulls. Magic teaches the young bulls to be calm and respectful.

Magic's looks, conformation, temperament and care of the calves makes him a joy to have on the farm.
